Annual Report of the Superintendent of Schools

To the School Board and Citizens of Alton:

I am submitting my fourth annual report as superintendent of your schools. The statistics cover the school year ending in June, 1916.

The average membership for the year was 206. The per cent. of attendance was 93 for all of the schools. Number of pupils neither absent nor tardy was 34. The number of visits 455, a falling off some from the last two years.

TEACHERS AND SCHOOL SUBJECTS

It was gratifying this year to have only one change in the teaching force of the Alton schools. It required a little more in the line of salaries than usual, but the results this year are more satisfactory than ever before. It takes a teacher at least half a year to get acquainted with the work and the children. The teaching positions in the village school require unusual labor. I might say that all of the teachers are over-worked either in number of subjects or time or with too many children in a room. Too much praise cannot be given for their sacrifice and devotion to their tasks.

New evidence of the great value of manual training, cooking, sewing and other household arts, agriculture, busy work of all kinds, school banking, dramatics, organized play, athletics, and social activities is coming in constantly. All of the schools of the town are adapting this practical work to the needs of the pupils with increasing interest and effect. Music is well done and commends itself to us at many public gatherings. Those who listen at the musicals, plays, public meetings, and closing exercises of the High School at the end of the year have evidence of the kind of training the children are receiving in the Alton schools.

EDUCATIONAL DEMANDS

Much is said at times with reference to the failure of the public schools. Sometimes we hear that the schools of the former generation were more efficient than the schools are today. Very many tests have been made during the last ten years with reference to this charge and in no case have the children of today failed to do better than the children of the former age even though they average about two years younger. Everything connected with school work is done better today than it has ever been done before.

What ought a school, then, to do for its children? What has the public a right to expect from its schools? The public has a right to demand that the children in the Elementary school be able to read silently with understanding and aloud pleasantly and with intelligence; to write legibly and with a good degree of speed; to express themselves orally with freedom and accuracy and clearly in good written English; to think with independence and draw conclusions from the thinking; to use accurately the fundamental operations, fractions, decimals, percentage facts, and measurements for ordinary life experiences; to read history with pleasure remembering influencing facts and tracing results back to causes; to get familiar with geographical facts that affect climate, production, and civilization, understand the great political divisions, forms of government, typical industries and related commercial interests; to get into touch with nature and learn to love her beauties; to obey the laws of health, sanitation and growth for themselves and for others; to use their hands with their minds in making things for ornament and for use; to conform to authority promptly and cheerfully recognizing the rights of others and the need of social service.

With this kind of preparation the public may demand of its High schools that they give a liberal education to those who are to enter the higher institutions of learning so that they may be able to do their work with ease, pleasure and profit, but that they place a much larger emphasis on the practical arts leading toward the practical professions and the trades, making pupils, the majority of whom are to go directly into the world's work, able to be self-supporting, successful and efficient in the work they undertake. Scholarship, however important, is not the chief business of a school. A very large majority of the children we are to train will never know the meaning of scholarship. Many will be poor in brains, in effort, in appreciation, and in gratitude. They will be bright, stupid, industrious, lazy, well-behaved and ill-behaved but it is the work of the school to make out of as many as it can men and women of character and purpose. The school that does not tend to make good citizens has no right to exist, no matter how high its standards of scholarship. Good health, right habits, high ideals, strong interests directed toward the common good, and a lofty patriotism must get hold of our boys and girls making them efficient, honorable and courageous.

The fundamental thing then is to produce intelligent, healthy, vigorous, honest, self-directed and unselfish citizens. This is a big program to match up to. It requires the love and discipline of good homes, the prayers and religious training of the churches, and the sacrifice and training of the best teachers. May I suggest that Alton has an opportunity to make progress in the co-operation of these three agencies in the training of her children. Every parent ought to visit school at least once a year. All other citizens are urged to do so. Every child of school age ought to attend church or Sunday school regularly, and every pupil ought to be prompt and regular in attendance at the day school with a will to be obedient and learn all he can.

METHODS

To bring about the results for which a school is maintained and for which the district taxes itself, we are using the demands of the patrons of the school, all of the common sense and good judgment we can muster, all of the helps that psychology can give, that pedagogy can give, that philosophy can give, that measurements can give, and that experience past and present can give.

In reading we are trying to make all children good readers by the end of the fourth grade. Few learn to read well after that grade.

In writing we are not teaching penmanship that belongs to the Business College even though some children have a talent for writing. We aim at legibility and speed for all. If it seems to some that the art of writing is neglected, let me say that the modern systems of hand writing have failed to get the results expected without an enormous waste of time for the majority of children.

In arithmetic we are trying to make sure of the fundamental operations and their automatic use. Figures are of little value unless they can be used quickly and accurately. All of the arithmetic problems that will ever be used in ordinary life can be taught in two years or less.

Every written or vocal activity is a lesson in language. That avoids separate time for language work. Language is incidental to thought and must be taught in that way to get satisfactory results. Our every day language and the language of the street do not help the schools much in teaching correct use of the mother tongue.

Spelling has been narrowed as far as number and kind of words are concerned. The words spelled are the words used by the children in the several grades and below. Some children who are natural spellers need not spell every day. It need not occasion any alarm to parents if some children do not spell regularly.

But we have learned that the three R's are not education but the tools of an education by which we are to learn geography, history, physiology, mathematics, art, science, music, industry and be able to enter intelligently any of the avenues of the life of man. Self-activity, and self-expression are the essential factors in every child's education. Nothing else will give thought, power, and initiative. There is no easy road to a good education and every child must dig and plug for himself. Parents should do all they can to help the teacher in getting the best and most out of the work of their children.

NEEDS

This is the second year of serving hot lunches to the children at the Center school. From 75 to 90 have been given a substantial amount of cocoa, fish chowder, corn chowder, etc., for two cents a day. We appreciate the interest of the parents and citizens. Some have made donations which have helped materially in making ends meet at the end of the winter term. Students in the high school and upper grades have acted as waiters and helpers and have done their part in making the noon lunch a success. It calls to mind the great need of more room and better accommodations for the Domestic Science department. It is remarkable that so much has been done under such adverse conditions.

It would be worth while for some well-disposed person of means to endow the playground and athletic activities of Alton. I wish that might be done. It is exceedingly difficult to get funds enough to do the best for the children in the line of exercise. Health exercises are absolutely necessary for good study. Some get the exercises at home in useful work, but many do not. Fresh air and exercise are fundamental.

Some advance has been made in the line of agriculture. The hot house has rendered good service for experiments and also some returns in a financial way from the sale of products. The last two seasons have been hard for boys caring for home projects, but we hope for a better season this year. May I say that the course will not be complete and the work in agriculture be fully developed until the teacher in that subject is engaged for a year and given land to cultivate in the spring, and opportunity made for boys who wish to work for wages on those crops in the summer. I think the right kind of a man could even make that kind of an agricultural opportunity more than self-supporting.

Those who have visited the schools at the Village this year have observed that the Primary and Intermediate rooms are much over-crowded. The Intermediate room has 50 or more and the Primary room 48 or more—, three grades in each room. How can we expect a teacher to do justice at all to so many say nothing about wearing her own nerves and health out in too short a time. It is a question whether it is educational economy to continue that condition very much longer. I cannot see any great relief in number of pupils for next year. It is very difficult to get teachers or hold them when so much is required. I am not certain but the present building could be enlarged to make room for another teacher and for the Domestic Science class.

I am aware that the needs of the schools appeal strongly to the citizens of Alton. This town has been very responsive and liberal in the past. No town in the state has a finer record. I am sure in the future that she will supply the needs as fully as is in her power.

May I conclude with an expression of deepest appreciation for the cordial co-operation of the school board, teachers, and citizens of Alton in the service of the public schools. I also express my thanks to the pupils who have with so much interest pursued their several lines of study.

Respectfully submitted,

F. U. LANDMAN,

Superintendent.
